

The Wio News!

Constructing a New World

The Wio's main teams efforts on making The Wio more manageable.

The Wio is a big, multiple interfaced website, which must be kept under close management, or it will become almost unusable. The Wio is now making the new Fall Line-up, or, the huge new installment. The design, and linking interfaces will be completely remade, though the looks of the pages will, most likely stay the same. All links will be refreshed, and made sure they are not broken... and all complaints will be fixed...

More news on this subject later!

One of the newest features to The Wio's database is the all new, and improved Bridge Page! This is a very unique award, that is given to any bridge player that show exceeding excellence in playing bridge, online, or in person! This will be sent via AIM, e-mail, website exchange, printed and given (with link) or any electronic or way of giving that isn't too difficult. Like bridge? Well, try out for this! E-mail the administrator at julian@thewio.com, or thewio@comcast.net. We will direct you to an online website if you do not know one, or a meeting place to met with The Wio's head.

HELLO! YET AGAIN, ONE OF THE WIO'S NEWEST FEATURES!

Scrubs! Yes, the new section is all about the all to famous television show, Scrubs. For those of you who don't know what it is, go search it on google, or go to scrubs-tv.com! Though, before you do that, i'll give you a small outline of it. It is a TV show, that isn't really based on any happy times, though it is humorous. It is about a doctor, and his life from the first episode about his new relations, to his new life, as an intern, to the latest season, season 6, where he focuses on life as an attending. So, check it out
